

Case study: Project Manager (Construction)

A construction client, a company active in the construction industry, was looking for a project leader who could support the team in managing new projects in Belgium. They asked Cross International to look for this key-person.

We needed to identify good possible candidates in the construction industry. Due to time restraints, we needed to act very fast.

We have a lot of experience in this industry, so we have a very good look on the market and we could immediately contact the candidates with the right kind of experience.

We were able to present five candidates within two weeks to our client. One of these candidates signed the contract in the fourth week. Both client and candidate were happy with the quick qualitative solution.

This is only one of the many successes we have booked in the construction industry.
